Development Licensing

The process of working with IDKit software development tools is simple and easy to follow. First of all, a customer must acquire their desired SDK in order to begin working on his or her development and integration project. Choose IDKit Pro or IDKit Standard SDK.

The SDK license contains a database of up to 5000 users. This is part of the development kit cost and is pre-paid. This database is for development purposes. The SDK also comes with 60 days of free technical support. Additional support can be provided if needed for an additional fee.

License protection

There are two available forms of license protection available. It is preferable to choose the Software License type (this is the default) as it avoids the need to ship any USB keys which are quite costly. Normal online orders will be with Software licensing type unless a USB Key is specifically purchased.

- Software license - IDKit license is placed in a file which is linked to hardware properties of the PC.
- USB dongle license - IDKit license is placed on a USB dongle which can be plugged into any PC.

Deployment Licensing

Once a customer has finished the development of his or her application, additional deployment licenses must be purchased. Depending on which SDK was purchased there are several deployment license types.

IDKit Workstation

- IDKit Workstation - The IDKit workstation price is based on the number of users in the database. There are no client licenses required for the IDKit Workstation as each PC must have its own Database License.

IDKit PRO

- IDKit PRO Server - The IDKit Pro Server price is based on the number of users in the central database.

- IDKit PRO Client - The IDKit Pro Client price is based on the volume of client licenses purchased at one time. The price for a single IDKit Pro Client is $27.00 and this price is lowered with specific volume discounts listed in the table below.
